THE PROPOSALS AS MADE IN THE HOUSE OF

he Chancellor's Long Speech—John Rus-kin's Alleged Insanity—Walter Bache— Gen. Boulanger Placed on the Retired List—Proposed Monument to the Late Emperor William-Death of the Sultan of -Foreign News.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, March 27.—Mr. Goschen's speech niroducing the budget yesterday was the ongest delivered in the House of Commons for some years past, lasting three hours and a quarter. The anxiety to learn the nature of his proposals was quickened by Mr. Goschen's own declaration, recently, that the budget would not be a humdrum budget like that of last year. Once more the absurdity of building a chamber capable of accommodating exactly one-half the represe people was made apparent by the members prowding the floor of the House and doorways and overflowing into the side galleries or, technically, outside the House. There was a slight failing off as one subject after another was disposed of, by the members rushingto the telegraph office. Mr. Goschen was frequently inter-rupted by members interested in particular ndustries, but it is admitted on all hands that he acquitted himself well, although be-ginning with a rather hoarse voice and showing some symptoms of exhaustion towards the close. As anticipated, the plan reduces the income tax by a penny, although British subjects, even then, have to pay one-fortieth of their incomes by this one impost. Of the remaining proposals the only one likely to mees serious opposition is the duty imposed on tradesmen's carts, falling upon small traders who are already thought to be over-burdened. The most popular proposal is that of the tax on race horses, which was received with ringing cheers. There was some disappointment among members who are old and unwieldy, when it was announced that tricycles and bicycles will not be subject to the new cart tax. The suggestion was made in a

I am informed that Mr. Ruskin has developed unmistakable symptoms of mental aber-ration. While staying at a hotel at Sandgate quite recently he became strange in manner, bought a number of bells and amused himself ringing them all day, much to the annoyance of the other guests. He wrote an incoherent letter to a firm of bell manufacturers in London. When they replied that they could not understand it he sent a wild, abusive letter addressing them on the envelope "Messleurs—Bellhangers, Bellpullers and Bellringers,"-with a crescent of otes of exclamation. Then followed the address in London, accompanied with initial letters at all points of the compass, with s note of interrogation after each. A friend who paid him a visit found him on all fours, saying he was an elephant. One day he became so violent and used such profane language that the landlord had to lay violent hands upon him. He promised to be quiet if the innkeeper released him, but immediately he got free he struck him in the face, saying, "You are an innkeeper, you have no soul," and he had to be removed and placed in a vicinity. emoved and placed in a private asylum.

THE LARD INVESTIGATION. Caruth Before the Committee-M Bartle's Beturn.

Washington, D.C., March 27 .- In the Ho Committee on Agriculture this morning Hoh. Asher Caruth of Kentucky presented the protest of the pork packers of Louisville, Ky., against the testimony of W. farmers throughout Kentucky.

The Chairman: "Do you believe in the sweeping charge made before this committee that farmers are in the habit of sending diseased hogs to the market?"

Mr. Caruth: "If I believed that of Ken tucky farmers I would cease to be a resident of that State."

Mr. Funston of Kansas, a member ar. Funsion or kansas, a member of the farmers of Kansas, protested against the charges of Mr. Bartle. He then asked Mr. Caruth what he characterized as a hypothetical question as follows: "If a witness before this committee should state that for eighteen years he had followed the business of purchasing or slaughtering piggy sows, stags, boars and cholera hoys, running them into bacon and selling them to the people; that at the age of 61 his conscience hurt him and he quit business; that afterwards he endeavored to purchase property to put his son into the same business. If you were a member of this committee would you consider him too big a willain and scoundrel to be believed even under oath?"

Mr. Caruth: "Well, that is rather a sweeping question. I would hate to believe that such things as that exist."

THERE was another big tumble in Kansas City real estate yesterday. About 1,500 feet of the bluff moved down into the "east bottom." This will necessitate another readjustment of values by the State Board of Equalization

Fon the sake of its own reputation the State Board of Equalization should reverse its hasty action in the matter of the Kansas City assessment. Its prompt submission to the dictation of a delegation of political bosses from Kansas City places this Board of State officials in the attitude of treating a State valuation as a purely local matter.

In the apportionment of State offices our A Chance That the Floods of the Year 1882 perpetual Secretary of State and Chief Justice McGrath is always charged to St. Louis, but the alacrity with which he voted to out down the assessment for the benefit of Kansas City can hardly be said to represent either the wishes or the interests of the over-assessed property-

Sensational Episode in the Trial of Watson at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 27 .- A small-sized sen ation was created in Judge Anthony's courtroom yesterday when the case of the Ansonia Clock Company against W. H. Watson, a former bookkeeper for the company, was resumed. The suit is to recover a large sum sumed. The suit is to recover a large sum of money which Watson is alleged to have embezzied from the company while in its employ. Attorney Frank Wiegley addressed Judge Anthony, making the startling announcement that it had come to his knowledge that an effort had been made to tamper with a juror. Several witnesses sworre positively that they had seen Juror Rosenthal in conversation with a man named Conion at different times since the trial began. Conion, it was learned, was a relative of Watson the defendant. The defense vigorously denied the charge, but Judge Anthony ordered the jury discharged and a new one impannelled.

The supposed dead man is not dead at all, but is a convict in the penitentiary at Stillwater, Minn., where he goes by the name of August Towsky. Zawistowski insured himself in the companies and then pretended to commit suicide, and his wife identified a body as his. He afterward married Lena C. This morning at 10 it is close to the 25-foot mark, and still climbing the bank steadily and rapidly. It lacks but little more than six feet of touching what is known as the danger line.

Information as to the conditions of the rivers north of here is meager, but the situation indicated by the late rains and snows is that the chances are decidedly favorable for a repetition of the floods of 1882.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT THOROUGHPARES TO BE RECONSTRUCTED.

of the Eighteenth Street Plans to Ge Through the Board—The New Gas Com-mittee Organizes for Its Investigation—

At the recent State Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Trenton mportant street reconstructions will be warded by the Board of Public Improvedeath rate of about 3 per cent among a mem-bership of over 17,500. The posts which stood highest in percentage of loss were Blair and Hassendeubel of St. Louis, numbering nents. All of the work let on that date will be completed during the coming summer. An effort will be made to complete some of the stood highest in percentage of loss were Blair and Hassendeubel of St. Louis, numbering together about 1,500. With the deaths which have occurred in these posts excluded, the rate for the State would be reduced to scarcely I per cent. The fact that excited nearly universal comment in this connection was that these posts had the strongest German representation of any in the State, Blair Post being very largely and Hassendeubel Post almost exclusively composed of Germans. The inference drawn by many prominent Grand Army men is that neither the Germans nor any other nation possess the capacity for enduring fatigue with which the average American is gifted, Judging by the death rate in this State, where the German element is very strong, G. A. R. statisticians argue that those of this nationality who served through the war suffered more permanent injury from the exposures to which they were subjected than others. The statistics of the late Encampment have not yet been classified with sufficient accuracy to admit of a close comparison of the mortality of different nationalities being made, but as far as yet appears the death rate among the Germans is most disproportionately high as compared with Americans. In this city Hassendeubel Post, over 600 strong with scarcely a dozen Americans among its members, lost nineteen by death during the past year, while Ransom Post, 400 strong, where the American element has an immense preponderance, lost but two.

The same state of affairs, in less marcked year on account of street reconstructions and cable building. Among the contracts to be awarded in April are the following reconstructions to be made with pine blocks treated by the zine process, which makes them dura-

Cass avenue from Broadway to Thirteenth street.

The north and south approaches of the Jefferson avenue bridge will also be paved. The grade of the Manchester road at Grand avenue will be out down east and west of the avenue to conform to the grade of the Grand avenue bridge approach.

The reconstruction of Cass avenue from Broadway to Thirteenth street has been in contemplation for a long time, but the bids received at the last letting were considered excessive, and were accordingly rejected. The fallure of the proposed ordinance to reconstruct Eighteenth street has altered the reconstruction plans of the Street Department to a considerable extent, probably more extensively than it would ordinarily if some feeling did not enter into the disposition of the ordinances proposed in relation to that street. In the case of Morgan street considerable influence was brought to bear to defeat the reconstruction scheme, and in the House some of the delegates openly opposed the bills.

The Board has also prepared an ordinance providing for the opening of Florissant avenue from Caivary Cemetery to the city limits line.

Company of New Haven they are controlling the entire sales of ammunition in the United States. They are also making very large shipments to foreign countries, both for military, hunting and tarrest purposes. These large manufacturers have formed a syndicate known as the "Ammunition Manufacturers' Association," having their headquarters in New York, with an appointed commissioner to look out for the welfare of the manufacturers of the syndicate as well as the various dealers handling their goods.

The syndicate consists of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, the Union Metallic Cartridge Company and the American Metallic Cartridge Company, all of which are working under an agreement. This association has standard schedule prices, binding the various gun dealers to sell their goods at a fixe price. In order to make purchases so as to obtain the lowest prices a gun dealer has to make such purchases of ammunition in large quantities so as to satisfy the association that his trade is sufficiently large to carry him along in what is termed the "combination list." While the manufacture of rifles is confined to a half dozen manufacturers, no syndicate to sustain prices has yet been formed. At the same time retailers are compelled to sell at stipulated prices. More Investigation. The new Gas Investigation Committee met man Blakely explained the situation. He said that on January 1, 1890, the tripartite agreement between the city and the St. Louis and Laclede Gas Light Companies will expire. If the extension granted the St. Louis Company on its franchise will be declared void by the courts and if the franchise of the Water Gas Company will be revoked as the city now asks for its entrance into the Trust it will leave only the Laclede Company and the Carondelet Gas Company in the field. He said that if these things did not come to pass the companies were in position to unite and control the business as one company. The committee spent sometime discussing the gas problem and the advisability of the city undertaking the management of the works, or of contracting for the lighting of the streets by electricity. It was decided to ask the assembly to authorize the committee to sit during the adjournment. The committee will ask the companies for figures on their plants on January I, 1890, with a view of laying the purchasing prices before the assembly in the committee's report. large, but a recent case came to light which of his death was printed in the papers, and the result was that early yesterday morning there were a large number of applicants for the position, who lost no time in presenting themselves for the dead man's place. Just what the attraction in the work can be is pretty hard to say, as the position of an usher at a theater pays only $4$ per week. This, taken in connection with the fact that the ushers are required to work every night in the week and two afternoons in every week, serves only to make the intense desire of the applicants for such unremunerative and laborious service all the more inexplicable. The age of the applicants was not confined to any particular stage. They ranged all the way from smooth-faced 14-year-olds up to grown men with mutton-chop whiskers and Prince Albert coats. The vacant position was easily filled, as there was a good field to pick from. James Conway was to-day appointed tem-porary guard at the Work-house.

"The season will be very gay," said Mrs. Hess, director of Penny & Gentles' millinery department, this morning. To-day the spring devices in bonnets and hats were shown for the first time—it was opening day—deputy-wardens, insufficiently fed and clothed, overworked, improperly housed and unreasonably punished; that they were whipped for inability to work and, in some instances, tortured to death by brutal wardens. They order the dismissal of the Wardens. They order the dismissal of the Warden of the Penitentiary and hold it to be necessary at once to abandon the camp as Coal Hill. No convicts will be permitted hereafter to work in mines or other places beyond the supervision of the penitentiary physicians. Coal Hill convicts are to be removed to the penitentiary. devices in bonnets and hats were shown for the first time—it was opening day—and the department was crowded with ladies, whose "obs" and "ahs" of admiration were interminable. Here was braver, surely; such positive, una interacted splashes of color as one sees in a fill of golden rod or in beds of roses.

"The season will be very gay," repeated Mrs. Hees. "Thasel will be worn on everything. There is to be a positive rage for gold braid, gold wire, steel buckles and beads, and oxidized ornaments. There will be no limit to the color. I do not think any summer for many years has been as gay as this will be. There will be a profusion of flowers on everything. Feathers are restired for the season, and flowers will be the thing. There are some new colors, such as gobelin blue, serpent grees, rust and old gold. The latter has been out of fashion for some years, but has returned. Look at this for an example of what will be worn," and she held up an an oddly-shaped bonnet covered with scarlet. "This," she said, "is called the "torpedo." Is it not a wonder? Very opposite in effect is this example of the season's mode. It is called the "poers" and is the latter Parisian fancy. Shall I describe it for you? Well, the crown is covered with heavy oream grosgrain silk, land that is overlaid with gobelin blue braid. The front is softly crushed with velvet of the gobelin blue shade and above it are large stiff bows of the cream silk. The strings to bonnets will be very wide this soason, in accord with the high colors to be worn. One of the styles that will be seen a great deal is the small flat turban trimmed profusely with flowers."

In the cloak department some stylish waps are held above.

steamship Alaska about March 13 to join her husband, who is a citizen of the United States, living in Minnespolis, Minn., should be debarred from landing. He has directed that they be returned to Europe this afternoon on the Guion steamship Wyoming. The case is a sad and pathetic one and is unprecedented in the history of Castle Garden. The Commissioners of Emigration have kept it a profound secret, but a humane friend of the poor woman has related her sad and remarkable story. Mrs. Magnusson and her oblideren arrived at Castle Garden March 13, the day following the blizzard, among the passengers of the steamship Alaska. The family was accompanied by a man, a relative, who was going to take them to their home in Minnespolis. All had tickets through to their destination. It was noticed by the officials in the Garden that Mrs. Magnusson, who is a large and muscular-looking woman, showed symptoms of being deranged. Thereupon she was detained. The man who accompanied her, made an affidavit to the Commissioners that Mrs. Magnusson was returning to her husband, who has been in this country over eight years; that she herself had lived here for four years, returning to Sweden about three years ago, and that the eldest of her children, a gril of 6, was born in Minneapoils. He furthermore expressed himself as desirous of taking the woman and her children and the woman and her children and the woman should be debarred from landing and she was to have been returned a week ago, but at the earnest request of the Guion Company her departure was delayed until to-day. Torn from her friend and secort, confined in the Insane Asylum at Ward's Island, Mrs. Magnusson's condition grew worse until now the plysicians pronounce her case a hopeless one. Superintendent Jackson informed her husband of the Collector's decision and the bereaved man asked that his children, at least, be sent to him, his circumstances not allowing him to come East. Even in her thsane moments the woman casked that his children, selession and the bereaved man as

Boyle and a friend named Mike Kavanaugh entered Dominick Ginnochio's saloon at Fourteenth and Pine streets on the night of February 24, 1887. Both had been drinking pretty freely and a row occurred. Ginnochio ejected them and Boyle hurled a stone 'through the window. He stood outside swearing, and Ginnochio followed him out. As he approached, Boyle picked up a stone weighing two pounds and struck the saloon-keeper on the head with it. The missile cut a gash three inches long in Ginnochio's head and fractured the skull. He lingered until March 3, when he died from the injury, having been unconscious most of the time. Joseph G. Lodge has been employed to assist Circuit-Attorney Clover in the prosecution, while Charles P. Johnson is defending. The latter was very angry this morning over the jurymen summoned. The first panel of tweive were all Germans. They are regarded as the most severe class of jurymen, especially when the defendant is not one of their own nationality, and particularly, as in this case, he is an Irishman. As a spectator remarked, "the defendant is in hard luck. He is an Irishman before a German jury and is charged with the killing of a saloon-keeper; and, worse than all, is defended by a pronounced local optionist and Prohibitionist."

The Horner Loan Case.

Judge Seddon to-day rendered a decision in Judge Seddon to-day rendered a decision in the Patterson-Booth case, involving the loan of $2,500 effected by the late Judge Horner upon the property of the plaintiff, for whom he was guardian for many years. The deed of trust was not heard of until after the death of the Judge and the settlement of the Fatterson guardianship. The Court's decision sets aside the note and the decree is entered for the plaintiff. Judge Seddon says: "Here is a confessed fraud! Doubtless Judge Horner intended no wrong. The honorable record of his life would lead to that conclusion. He was in strong and vigorous health and thought perhaps that he could easily pay the note in the end and that no injustice would result to any one, but it did not not so turn out. However good his motives may have been it had resulted in working fraud, and though painful, justice requires that plain language be used. The curator held a position of the highest public confidence. He had been for years the guardian of Patterson, who had placed implicit confidence in him and everything about the administration had been straight and fair apparently. He made a full settlement with his ward, explained to him the circumstances under which he bought the property, and assured him, in a manner to disarm even a shrewd and practical lawyer and business man, that he had made no encumbrances and that he conveyed all that he had received.

"He delivered the quitolaim deed in March and died in October, and shortly after discovering the true state of affairs he instituted this proceeding. The curator had no authority to mortgage the property though the immediate of the facts unless it be implied in receiving a quitclaim deed, and shortly after discovering the true state of affairs he instituted this proceeding. The curator had no authority to mortgage the property though the immediate of the facts unless it be implied in receiving a full solution of the contrary he charged against his estate all property and business on the setate. It was in fact a loan on his own accoun of $2,500 effected by the late Judge Horner upon has paid these items once and there is no justice in compelling it to pay them again.

"In conclusion, the language of Lord Eldon in a similar case can be used: "We should regret that any doubts could be entertained whether it is not competent to a court of equity to take away from third parties the benefit which they have derived from the fraud, imposition or undue influence of others. The decree will be entered in favor of the plaintiff. The curator died insolvent. The presumption is that he was insolvent as the time that he delivered the quitolaim deed a short time before. Being insolvent, it is a mere speculation whether he would have paid the note if the facts now known had been developed during his lifetime. The motives of honor ought to be presumed to be as strong with his children as with nim."

describing how Keane was coming at him with a knife, when he struck him in the head with a coupling-pin, near the Hazei Mill, Saturday a week ago. When he concluded, Jerry Keane, a brother of the prosecuting witness asked an irrelevant question which contained a reflection on the little woman who stood by Miles' side and who is known as his wife. Quick as a fiash Miles reached back to his hip pocket. His action was seen by everybody in the court-room and a wild scene coentred. Keane was the first man to throw open the door and escape to the sidewalk, and several other spectators of the trial fell all over each other in their wild rush to reach the street. Two or three escaped by a rear door, and in less than ten seconds the 'Squire, Chief Walsh, Miles hithself and the little woman who held his arm were the only ones left in the court-room. Young Jerry Reane, who was the first man out, did not stop when he reached the yidewalk, but started up the street as fast as he could go. Officer Smith, who was coming down fourth street, saw Keane running and the rest of those who were in the court-room scattering in all directions and not knowing what had happened, grabbed Keane by the neck and brought him to an sbrupt and tather violent standstill. When no report was heard the frightened spectators ventured back to the court-room again and the trial was resumed, Miles being discharged as there was evidence to show that he had acted in self-defense.

Miss Maria Cavanaugh, a good-looking young lady, who lives on Fourth street in the Second Ward, swore out a warrant this morning before 'Squire Shea, charging Fritz Merz with pawning a gold ring belonging to her. Miss Cavanaugh kept company with Merz, and one evening recently as they were walking along in the gloaming Merz took occasion to admire a ring which she wore, and she allowed him to see how it would fit his finger. It fitted so well and looked so elegant that he requested her to permit him to wear it. She consented, after giving him to understand, however, that he was not to consider it an engagement ring because it was leap year. When they parted Merz went and pawned the ring for $1. When he visited Miss Cavanaugh last evening she noticed at once that the ring was missing, and demanded an explanation. The one he gave was not satisfactory, and this morning she swore out a warrant against him. He was arrested and lodged in jail, but was released this afternoon upon procuring the money to redeem the ring and pay the costs of the court. The next young fellow who raises anything on Miss Cavanaugh's ring will have to be what is familiarly known as a "dandy."

A SCHEMING COUPLE. Bled by a Pretty Woman.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, March 27.—A bold scheme to extort money from a number of wealthy residents of Burlington County, N. J., has just come to light. The scheme has been in opera-tion for some time, and the victims have been quietly submitting to the extortionate de-mands made on them in order to avoid an ex-

"DIED-In Florence, N. J., March 28, J. S. Redeld, in the 79th year of his age." The date of death indicated in the notice shows that his plans had not worked as originally intended and the deed was probably delayed because of the time it took to write all the letters he desired to leave for his friends. No cause is assigned for the deed, as he was not known to be in any financial strait, and was usually of an equably cheerful disposition.

Blundering Secret-Service Agent Cause

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., March 27 .- Secre urday from Ritchie County with a large bundle of five-dollar silver certificates which he alleged were counterfelts. He went to all of the banks of this city yesterday and found a great amount of the same issue in all of them. One bank is reported as having $29,000 worth. These notes were thrown out by McSweeny as counterfeits. The banks were rattled, as also were all merchants and business men merchants and business men of the city, not one of them escaping. The consternation became general and a small panic ensued. Meanwhile McSweeny had sent the note to the authorities at Washington, believing they would indorse this action. About do clock this afternoon he received a telegram from the department saying that the notes were all good. McSweeny says the authorities accounted for the discrepancy on the ground that the latter issues had been printed by machinery instead of by hand, and were the first issues. The banks and people are too overloyed overswing their money to be hypocritical. The alleged counterfelts are over one-sixteenth of an inch short.

The statement that Charles H. Wilson, son of Hunt P. Wilson, had broken windows in the United Hebrew Temple at Twenty-first and Olive streets was an exaggration. Swindled Laborers,

A man who gave his name as Fred Meyer was arrested by Officer Fuqua on the Levee to-day on a charge of fraud. Meyer had been representing himself as the agent of the St. representing himself as the agent of the St. Louis Sugar Rednery Company, and securing small sums of money from labor ers on the promise that they would be given positions upon application at the eompany's office. MONEY.

New York, March 27, '11 a. m.—There was only a moderate business at the opening of the stock market, but prices were strong as compared with last evening's closing figures, the advances extending to the per cent. Forenoon Session, clesing 1 p. m.

Wheat had he added to its value this morning by a further advance to other markets and in corn, which classed some to other markets and in corn, which offerings to small dimensions. This put enough strength into the market to advance May to 80 he and July to 77 he, though there was little anap to trading and the bull side was worked very cautiously. Cables were reported steadier, but dull, damage reports were increasing and there was fair decrease in the stock here, but the cold wave hadn't materialized, the European market new were not encouraging enough, and no one felt inclined to play the damage-to-crop side very hard. The first of the soda-water boom didn't last long enough to enable the bulls to get even a half decent scalp out of the first control of the cont St. Louis Markets.

6 % 20-YEAR GOLD BONDS FOR SALE.

The New Cable is now being placed ready for work and will be in operation May 1, at the latest. Under the cable system practical results show that in every instance where the horse lines have been converted into cable lines, an increase of receipts at the outset of 35 to $50^{\circ}/_{\circ}$ and a decrease in operating expenses of at least $40^{\circ}/_{\circ}$ have been made, as will be seen from the condensed statement of the Chicago Cable Railroads, which is as

"During the last fifteen years the Company's plant has increased from 23 miles of track to 122 miles, from 75 cars to 316 cars. The cable system is now doing the work of 3,000 horses, with the capacity of doing that of 10,000 more. The increase of number of passengers carried to that of last year was 6,000,000, all of which increase occurred on the cable cars. The cost of operating a cable car was 10 1-2 cents per mile per car; the cost of horse car was 23 16-100 cents per mile per car to operate."

The CITIZENS' RAILWAY COMPANY has earned for the last 17 years a net average of $63,500 per annum. I am now the sole agent for the sale of the 300,000 Citizens' Railway Cable Bonds remaining unsold, and will be pleased to show statement and answer all questions relating to same on application at my office.

I am authorized to offer these bonds for the next thirty days at a price which affords unusual inducements to purchasers. The bonds bear 6 % interest, payable semi-annually in New York, and are not due until 1907.

Will pay the market price for St. Louis City, United States Government, or Missouri Pacific Railroad bonds due August, 1888, in exchange for Cable bonds.

THE ANTI-POVERTY SOCIETY.

Dr. McGlynn and His Followers Hold

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH. NEW YORK, March 27.—The large hall of Cooper Union was well filled last night notwithstanding the rain, the majority of the as-semblage being women. The occasion was the annual meeting of the Anti-Poverty Society. Dr. McGlynn presided and was ap-plauded when he entered, when he spoke when he sat down and when he was re-electe ident of the society. The meeting was when he sat down and when he was re-elected President of the society. The meeting was a love-feast for the reason that no one but loyal members of the society was invited. Dr. McGlynn made aspeech reviewing the work of the society for the past year; its meetings in the Academy of Music and the assistance it rendered the United Labor party through its big fair. He paid his attention to trusts, syndicates and pools, denouncing them as methods designed to monopolize the bounties of nature to the disadvantage of the people. The dissensions in the society were lightly alluded to. They existed as a matter of course and were to be expected in all organizations. The doctor referred to Henry George as the man who had first suggested to him the idea of the Anti-Poverty Society.

Secretary Michael Clarke, in the report, gave a description of the work the society was doing, and said it had branches in all the principal cities of the United States, in England, New Zealand and Australia. He also read the report of Treasurer Sylvester Malone, which showed that from February II to March 25 this year the receipts were $1,284.11, against 1,775.96 expenses. John J. Bealin offered a motion, which was adopted, that the society indorse the call for the National Convention of the United Labor party in Cincinnati, May 15. Then the Secretary read the resignation of Henry George from the Vice-President, May 15. Then the Secretary read the resignation of Henry George from the Vice-President, May 15. The following officers were then re-elected: Dr. McGlynn, which was cheered.

The following officers were then re-elected: Dr. McGlynn, President; Jas. Redpath, Vice-President; Michael Clark, Secretary, and Sylvester Malone, Treasurer.

CAPT, CHARLES N. BRACKETT, Death of the Noted Chief of the Govern

Brackett, the noted Chief of the Government Secret Service under the administrations of his residence, No. 344 West Fifteenth street, yesterday afternoon in the 56th year of his age, of bronchial pneumonia contracted through exposure to the great blizzard. He was a widower, and leaves a family of four grown sons. Capt. Brackett was one of the most noted detectives of his generation, and the history of the secret service shows that more smuggled goods were seized during his administration than at any other time before or after. He was born November 28, 1881, in the Seventh Ward, this city. His father was Nowell Brackett, lately deceased, a well-to-do leather merchant. The young man met with business reverses and was thrown upon his own resources. He was appointed on the municipal police force, and was quickly promoted to the rank of Sergeant, and for meritorious service during the "draft riots" was made a Captain and given command of the Twenty-sixth Precinct. The office of Fire Marshal was created for his benefit, and he was the first his residence, No. 344 West Fifteenth street

THE SUBURBAN WINNER.

Glimpse Into the Prospects of the Big

A writer in the New York Tribune says: Stuyvesant, that big-bellied colt of the sweeping stride, the chief bread-winner of the Pittsburg stable last year, is said to have gone wrong at Mobile. I should advise those who like this fellow for the Brooklyn handlespand there are a good many who do-not to lose any sleep over his reported lameness. Wasn't he "off" all last season? And didn't be wir ne "off" all last season? And didn'the win right along, race after race, beating the best of them? But you must not forget that Stuyvesant at a mile and a quarter is not Stuyvesant at a mile and a quarter is not Stuyvesant. If the Brooklyn were only a mile instead of what't is, Capt. Brown might never do better than take all he can get at 30 to 1. Butover the Suburban distance the sturdy 4-year-old son of Glengarry and Dublin Belle is an exceedingly dear investment at the price quoted. I would rather have that inconsistent rogue Blue Wing at half the price. Capt. Brown insists that on his merits this uncertain rascal ought to have beaten Dry Monopole last year. That's a matter of opinion. Blue Wing was a good horse on the 14th day of last May, and this year he should be equal to at least one race. Last year the handloapper put them the last pounds apart, the little bay colt having the better of the weights, while this year Blue Wing has the advantage, carrying li4 to Dry Monopole's 115. Yes, it must be admitted that if Blue Wing is himself again he is going to be a hard one to beat.

Perhaps the horse to beat him is the gret son of Hindoo, whose dethronement last season, of Hindoo, whose dethronement last season, after one of the most brilliant campaigns on record, caused so many heartaches. It seems impossible to look beyond Hanover for the winner of the Brooklyn. The fact that the Dwyers have not declared Kingston is no evidence that they intend to send him for this race. It is not their habit to cancel nominations unless their entries go amiss. Yeu know wall enough that Kingston is no early conright along, race after race, beating the best dence that they intend to send him for this race. It is not their habit to cancel nominations unless their entries go amiss. You know well enough that Kingston is not an early candidate for mile-and-a-quarter honors. He is undoubtedly the most delicate of all our high-class racers. Snedeker, the Silent, who taught him the business of racing, has said this dozens of times, and Frank McCabe, in whose careful hands the son of Spendthrift was so singularly successful last fall, has been heard to repeat the remark. Kingston will be ripe in June, ripe enough to pluck.

Hanover was no better at any time as a 3-year-old than he appears to-day. The game fellow looks hungry for work. If he were net such a gluttonous feeder one might easily believe that he would leave his oats for the chance of a gallop. McCabe could bring him to the post in two weeks fit to run for a man's life. That's the condition he'll be in when the bell rings for the Brooklyn Handicap, and if McLaughlin's hands have not lost their cunning, the Archer of America won't have to snied his face from any sand or gravel on that day. This is the way the story of the race will read:

"At the fall of the flag Hanover took the track. Passing the stand he was leading his horses by a neck, pulling McLaughlin out of the saddle at every stride. At the quartergot up on even terms with the son of Hindoo, McLaughlin out of the saddle at every stride. At the duartergot up on even terms with the son of Hindoo, McLaughlin out of the saddle at every stride. At the half Hanover climbed through his bridle and shaking off—as if he were so much chaff strode home winner by a length and a quarter. When led back to the paddock he would not have blown out a candle."

Paul, and consequently would not leave his business unless there was something in it for him if he won the contest. Killen is a six-footer and a man of fine proportions. He is the personification of good nature and rarely mingles with the toughs. His attitude before an opponent in the ring is the ideal one, and his knock-out blows are always dealt with his left hand. He has engaged in forty-one battles and never met defeat, and about a year ago Pat Sheedy said Killen could whip any man in the world, but he has always been handicapped by lack or a shrewd manager. Killen is very sore over his failure to best Cardiff in ten rounds at Minneapolis last sumuer. Cardiff is a good general and tricky and in the second round is said to have got his knee against Killen. The latter is now flaunting 500 as a forfeit in Cardiff's face, but the latter will not accept. Killen married a very handsome girl about a year ago who proved a prize, as a short time after the marriage she fell heir to $10,000.

In the fall of 1886 Killen was accused of hippodroming his fight with Billy Bradburn of Chicago at Minneapolis. A few months later Killen returned to Minneapolis to fight Duncan McDonald, the clever sparrer who traveled with Sullivan. When Killen stepped in the ring at the Washington Rink he was greeted with hisses, and when at the very beginning of the first round McDonald got in a light blow on Pat's chest the crowd cheered. John Milligan, the Athletic Club catcher whose transfer to St. Louis was involved in whose transfer to St. Louis was involved in the Gleason deal, wired President Von der Ahe this morning that he had accepted his terms and could report here Saturday. He was instructed to come on immediately, leaving Philadelphia, if possible, to-day, in order to leave for Memphis with the Browns on Thursday night.

Milligan's acceptance of President Von der Ahe's terms, which were something like $1,000 less than Milligan's bluff not to sign for less than a certain sum, or "go lay brick," demonstrates conclusively that brick-laying has its terrors and drawbacks. Milligan's sudden precipitation from his brick-laying attitude shows his fears had gained a strong foothold upon him, and as the spring set in, the possibility of pressing brick for the summer stared him in the face. There is a sad ting to the brick-laying bluff, and other devotees at its shrine, will soon desert it as it totters upon its filmsy foundation.

That contract is still unsigned and Mr. Smith has not indicated whether he will agree to its terms or not. Speaking of the matter to-day, Mr. Von der Ahe said: "The facts in the case are that the Detroiters are airaid to meet us and think that we would beat them out, thus having the honor of the title for the summer. How the Latest Foolish Trick Was Worked First of the Steddard Lectures at the Grand

The opening lecture of the Stoddard course at the Grand Opera-house last evening was a present, and the speaker was closely followed from the beginning, the most attractive of his beautiful illustrations being greeted with en-Stoddard's lectures is that the pictorial and verbal illustration of his themes are so admirably balanced and fitted to each other. While the eye is delighted with some realistic and artistic view of a landscape of a rich bit of Moorish architecture, Mr. Stoddard is piessing and instructing the mind by telling in an easy conversational way all about it, or telling some incident in history, or histown experience connected with it. The theme of his lecture last evening, "Travels in Sunny Spain," has been treated here before, but it is one of his best and richest in lovely and picturesque subjects of illustration. Since his last lecture also Mr. Stoddard has revisited Spain and has added interesting bits here and there. He began with the Pyrenees, and after giving glimpses of their beauty, he led his audience to the grand and gloomy Escurial, then to Cordova with its beautiful mosque, then to historic Seville, then the Alhambra with its wonders were illustrated and described and the principal points about Grenada, which, with a contrast of new and old Spain, ended the lecture.

To-night Mr. Stoddard will deliver his most interesting lecture on Julius Cosar, giving scenes from the life of the great Roman. Stoddard's lectures is that the pictorial and Matinees will be at all the theaters to-mor Marguerite Fish in "Town Lots" is pleasing the audiences at Pope's. Miss May Treat and her company with the dog Trix give the patrons of the Standard a good entertainment.

The interest which attaches to "Dr. Jeykl and Mr. Hyde" will doubtless make the engagement of Mr. Woods and his company at the People's successful. The sale of seats for the annual Elks' benefit which will take place at the Grand Operahouse on Thursday afternoon, April 5, commenced at the box office to-day with a lively demand.

The bookings for next week at the theaters are Erminie with new scenery and costumes at the Olympic, Fred Wards at the Grand, "Tourists" at the People's, "Little Puck" at Pope's and "Keep It Dark" at the Standard. The unique and novel character and bar-barle and picturesque splendor of Mr. Gil-lette's production of "She" at the Olympio promises to make the engagement one of the best of the season. Books of "She" will be given as souvenirs at to-morrow's matinee.

The great majority of clotheswearers know little, if anything, of the value per yard of cloth, of the price and quality of trimmings, of the regulation of a fair day's wages for cutter, tailor and salesman. Each one of these items is an important factor for good or evil, use or abuse, according to the merchant who amalgamates material and labor into a stock of clothing.

Buyers would do well to weigh their dollars against the business morals of dealers, and see that they obtain a just balance of value before throwing them into the purchasing scale. It is desirable to know that all those technicalities hidden between material and lining are in the right place and of the right quality, and that only a fair profit is being paid.

Failing your knowledge of tailorng, the next best thing is to pin your faith to a firm whose reliability has been tested—that will refund your money cheerfully in case of dissatisfaction.

A leading chemist of New York says: "No plasters of such merit as the Ath-lo-pho-ros Plasters haveever before been produced." They are a novelty because they are not made simply to sell cheap, they are the best that science, skill and money can produce, and will do what is claimed for them. For sprains, aches, weakness, lameness, etc., they are unequaled.

The Athlophoros Plaster acted like magic. It is the best I ever tried and I have used many kinds. Our druggist said "plasters are all about the same" but I don't think so now. I sprained my arm spainful since, but it does not pain me sä all now.
